

PROTECTING YOUNG PEOPLE FROM HARMFUL SEXUAL BEHAVIOURS

Ongoing disclosures made on the Everybody's Invited website have brought into shape focus the level of sexual harassment and gender-based violence experienced by girls and women and the extent to which 'rape culture' exists both in and outside of schools, as well as some of its' root causes.

This free online seminar provides an opportunity to examine a range of strategies to address and bring to an end peer-on-peer online and offline sexual harassment. The overall aim is to enable schools and youth settings to effectively prevent and respond to all forms harmful sexual behaviours.

Keynote speakers*

- Lauren Seager-Smith, CEO Kidscape, Sexual Bullying in Schools
- Will Gardner, CEO: Childnet, Online Sexual Harrasment
- Indya-Jayne Wardle, Youth Advisor: Plan UK, Street Harassment
- East Sussex Youth Cabinet. Domestic Violence Strategy
- Tom Goulden and John Khan, Priority 1-54, Maps to Manhood Programme

*more speakers to be announced

By the end of the seminar delegates will be able to:

- Recognise best practice principles in delivering 'whole school approaches' for reducing harmful sexual behaviour with prevention at its core
- Embed learning immediately using curriculum-based materials that explore gender stereotypes, online and offline sexual harassment, toxic masculinity whilst promoting healthy and respectful relationships between young people.
